Please use the email address listed on your hearing documents when contacting the court regarding any concerns. Do not use or reply to this email, as it is a private email account and any documentation sent here will not be distributed or reviewed.

(Note: The court's automated system did separately email you a functional "Order to Show Cause" PDF the night before, but it included a disclaimer stating: "Your receipt of this emailed Order is not intended to be a substitute for service".)

Good morning,

If you cannot serve the Respondent the hearing paperwork for your Motion to Show Cause by the methods the court provided you within the instructions, please complete the attached Motion for Alternate Service and email back to our office PPO@3rdcc.org for filing. Once we file it, we will send it to the court for processing. ... If you have any questions related to PPO hearings, you must email the court at PPO-Court@3rdcc.org. We are the PPO Office only and cannot answer any hearing or court related questions.

[Author's Note: Two days later, on Friday, March 13, the court officially denied Adrienne Rockenhaus's alternative service request via an automated email, stating: "The motion for alternative service is denied because this matter involves proceedings for Violation of PPO... Additionally, the record does not reflect that any attempts at personal service have been made."When Adrienne Rockenhaus replied to that denial on Saturday, March 14, begging them to explain the logic of demanding a process server physically find someone when the court's own order stated "no known address"...

The court responded with complete silence.]

Please explain to me how to have my violent abuser physically served with the “show cause” when the order itself says “no known address”.

Please explain to me why the alternative service was denied when absolutely no one knows where my violent abuser is, or how to physically find him? Where is the process server supposed to serve this show cause hearing, when there is “no known address”.

Please explain the logic behind this denial and the next steps for me, since no one in the world knows where my violent abuser is, and he has no address to serve. My abuser continues to make threats and terrorize my family and me over the conradrockenhaus2@gmail.com, and your denial for alternative service has put my whole family and me in severe danger. Your delays and denials will get me killed.

Please stop deliberately harming me with state created danger when I am begging for my life, and approve the alternative service so that I am not murdered, thank you.
